

Team-Delivered Care in Primary Care

Results from a National Online Survey of Behavioral Health Providers

What are Examples of Team-Delivered Care Between Primary Care Team and Embedded Behavioral Health Providers in this Study?

- Shared medical appointments, where primary care and behavioral health providers meet patients with a shared condition
- Conjoint appointments, where primary care and behavioral providers meet with a shared patient together
- Engaging in Team Meetings (e.g., huddles)
- Engaging in Warm Handoffs
- Indirectly through asking each other questions or providing verbal feedback on patients

Results

Based on 434 Embedded Behavioral Health Providers (~14.2% response rate, 37% VA)

Opportunities for Potential Growth

90%

of providers reported receive a warm handoff daily

1-4 patients

out of on average 6 patients seen per day received a warm hand-off

77%

of providers conduct conjoint and shared medical appointments at least monthly

Predictors of Higher Levels of Engagement in Team-Delivered Care Activities:

- Greater number of years the behavioral health provider worked in primary care
- Higher amount of reported teamwork within primary care team as a whole

This work was supported by the VA Center for Integrated Healthcare (<http://www.mirecc.va.gov/cih-visn2/>). Any information does not represent the views of the US Government. Feel free to contact the Principal Investigator at: Jennifer.Funderburk@va.gov
More Information Can be Found in: Funderburk, J.S, Gass, J.C., Wray, J.M., &Shepardson., R.L. (in press). Prevalence and Predictors of Team-Based Care Activities Between Primary Care Providers and Embedded Behavioral Health Providers: A National Survey. Journal of Interprofessional Care